Lutheran Minister Gives Forceful Talk

"You cannot afford to neglect, in this school, the great element of religion," said Reverend W. W. Kannerly, D.D. in his talk in chapel on Wednesday. Reverend Kannerly is pastor of the church of the Redeemer, an English Lutheran church of Milwaukee. The purpose of his visit to Appleton was to assist Rev. Schreckenberg, local Lutheran pastor, in organizing the "Luther" club of Lutheran students at Lawrence.

Rev. Kannerly referred to a verse in the fifteenth chapter of John, which states, "Without me ye can do nothing," a statement directly following the parable of the vine and the branches.

Three well-known statements of Christ—"I am the way," "I am the truth," and "I am the life," were pointed out by Rev. Kannerly. "Christ," he added, "is the only one who can say this."

After commenting upon the tendency of modern youth to say "This is the life," when in the whirl of social life, the speaker added, "This is the life. Live it. Get all you can out of it but in the right way. When you exhaust this life, there is a life that will enter into your life before you will amount to anything, and that is the life of the Prince of Peace. Follow him and get out of life all you can, and make a contribution to your country."

Lack of Interest In Song Contest

Some time ago President Wriston offered a prize of $25 for the best college song produced within the next few weeks following his announcement. At present only six or eight songs have been submitted, a number hardly sufficient to merit the judgment of the committee. It is felt that there are certainly more students who are interested and who have the ability to enter the competition. One or two of the songs that have been submitted have come from alumni and more are expected from that source.

President Wriston will undoubtedly turn his attention to the contest immediately after his return, and as the time is getting short, students are urged to get busy.

Ruth Churchill, '27, and Verel Knaap, '28, will attend the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity informal dance at Ripon on Saturday, January 23.

Dr. Wriston Returns From East Wednesday

Dr. Henry Merritt Wriston returned from the east Wednesday evening after having spent eleven days there in attending six meetings he had on schedule, and squeezing in an extra convention in Chicago.

These meetings included The New York Preachers' meeting, the Conference of College Publicity of Methodist Colleges, The Methodist Educational Association, and the Association of American Colleges, all of which were discussions for better colleges; and the Council of Foreign Relations' dinner for Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations. These took place in New York City. Dr. Wriston spoke at two alumni dinners, one at New York and the other at Boston. He spent the weekend at Wesleyan University at Middletown, Connecticut, where he taught for eleven years. Sunday afternoon he presided over a student round table discussion of the similarities and contrasts between the east and the west.

The Boston Alumni dinner was unusual, says Dr. Wriston, for most of the fifteen members present had or were taking graduate work. They reorganized their association, and will have frequent meetings in the future.

To Discuss Moral Standards of Girls

Y.W.C.A., in its next two meetings, will attempt to solve the problem of what moral standards a girl should have, a question which is receiving the interest and consideration of many Lawrence coeds.

Sunday evening, Jan. 24, at Hamar House, Mrs. Wilson S. Naylor will talk on "What Should a Girl's Moral Standards Be?"

The following Sunday evening, Jan. 31, the girls will be given an opportunity to consider the ideas set forth by Mrs. Naylor, and to express their sentiments and judgment concerning the problem. At this meeting no advisors or faculty members will be present and the girls only will discuss the question and attempt to reach a decision concerning it.

Three Prizes Offered To Student Writers

All students who consider themselves fairly good writers, or whose knowledge of English literature is especially extensive, will be interested in the fact that the deadline for the English prizes is drawing close.

The Alexander Reid and the Hicks prizes are offered in composition, the former being given for the best essay of from 1000 to 2000 words and are open to all college students, the latter being offered for the best English composition. Freshmen are ineligible for this prize. The Tichenor prize is awarded by competitive examination in English literature and is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

For the last two years both the Reid and Hicks prizes have been won by Mary Bennett; the Tichenor prize was awarded last year to Walda Ruseh, '25.

The deadline for these prizes comes early in the third quarter, making it advisable that those who are interested begin work at once.

Several Students Confined to Hospital

Florence Cole, '29, Rhinelander, is the latest Lawrence student to enter St. Elizabeth's hospital for treatment. Miss Cole had her tonsils removed last night.

Lois Manchester, '27, Racine, was removed from Russell Sage infirmary to the hospital Wednesday, January 20, for the lancing of a tonsillar abscess. She is getting along well, and will leave for her home soon, to remain there for the duration of the quarter.

Lesley Palmer, who was out of school most of last quarter because of an infection in his arm, has had to return to the hospital for further treatment, but at present he is getting along very well.

Works of Art Donated by Herbert Miles

Ten Beautiful Pictures Given To Library—Masterpieces of Italian, Dutch and Spanish Art

Herbert E. Miles, '28, trustee of Lawrence, has given ten colorful pictures, representatives of Italian, Dutch, and Spanish art, to our library. Mr. Miles has just returned from Europe where he spent the last year in the interest of the Fair Tariff League, and was able to do a bit of art connoisseurship on the side. The collection he has given Lawrence will not only brighten the library, but will provide valuable subjects for study for Dr. O. P. Fairfield's art classes.

The Italian pictures are Grand Duca, and the Sistine Madonna, by Raphael; Mona Lisa and Head of Christ, by De Vinci; and Madonna, by Luini. Two Rembrandts, The Council and A Dissection, are examples of the Dutch School; and The Infants, The Child Christ and Saint John, and The Christ Child, by Murillo, are works of Spanish art.

Mr. Miles, as chairman of the Fair Tariff League, has done much toward illuminating the public on tariff matters. He is a prominent clubman, and among other offices, holds the vice-presidency of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Penny Scramble at Armory is Prohibited

For some time the youngsters at the basketball games have amused the crowds and profited themselves financially in the penny scramble between periods at the basketball games.

The fact that this practice ruins the playing floor for basketball is sufficient reason why it must be discontinued.

The athletic department at Lawrence is anxious to have all students cooperate in abolishing this nuisance, and refrain from throwing coins between halves.

Dr. Tippy Addresses Students In Chapel

"Unemployment and the other evils existing in the industrial world today must not be considered an unsolvable problem," said Dr. W. M. Tippy of the Federal Council of the Churches of America in his speech in chapel on Tuesday. "It is the duty of the church to solve this problem and to say to the statesmen and the business men of the country, 'The time has come for industry to take its place beside the educational, the medical, and the ecclesiastical professions for the saving of human life.'"

"Industry must consecrate itself to the economic needs of man because without its economic resources the other professions can do nothing for human welfare," the speaker continued. "The curse of modern industry is its acquisitive nature which is wrong only when it becomes the dominant instinct. It is the duty of the church to break this spirit by making the coming leaders of industry the young men and young women who are not only socially and industrially trained for their positions, but whose leadership is controlled by the spirit of Jesus, 'I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep...and I lay down my life for the sheep.'"

The speaker closed with the statement that if industry were controlled by this spirit, it would mean a new prosperity, a new peace and solidarity, and a brotherhood which would eventually make of the world a great co-operative commonwealth.

Dorothy Sorenson, '29, who was operated for appendicitis last quarter has been obliged to leave school again this quarter on account of poor health.

Florence Colburn, '26, spent last Sunday in Milwaukee.

Zuehlke, Injured In Accident, Improving

Raymond Zuehlke, '29, who was injured in an auto accident last Saturday, Jan. 16, is improving, but as yet he is not completely out of danger, according to Dr. Victor Marshall, physician in charge.

The driver of the other car, George Erickson of Weyauwega, has been released after paying a fine and costs on the charge of drunkenness alone. The charge of reckless driving was not brought against him.

Kersten Discusses College Man's Creed

The moral standards of a college man are not as low as some people presume, and the college man is not a mere "social butterfly," declared Irvin Kersten, '26, in a talk at the Y.M.C.A. meeting last night. "Most every college man," said Kersten, "has the following creed: 'I believe in the creator of the universe—in God. I believe in the greatest handiwork of God—man. I believe in the greatest attribute of man—gentlemanliness.'"

Mr. Kersten challenged his hearers to live up to that creed.

The speaker urged the men to promote friendship on the campus, to be less ready to condemn, and more willing to trust other students. Students should try to know and understand each other better, he said.

As the qualities of a gentleman, courtesy, service, ambition, and chivalry were named. Mr. Kersten stated that the "acid test" of a gentleman is to be able to smile in spite of the fact that some one has hurt his feelings.

Phi Kaps Take First Place In Bowling Tourney

By taking the Psi Chis into camp last night for three straight games the Phi Kaps broke into first place in the annual interfraternity pin-walloping fest. This relegates the D.L.s and Betas to a triple tie for second with the Theta Phi crew, who by their three straight wins over Psi Chi and one win from the Delta Sigs, have put themselves right in with the leaders.

Most of this is a result of last night's contests. A table of the standings of the different teams is given below. This is up to date:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Phi Kaps	5	1	.800
Delta Iota	4	2	.666
Theta Phi	4	2	.666
Beta Sigma Phi	4	2	.666
Delta Sigs	3	3	.500
Phi Taus	3	3	.500
Sigmans	1	5	.166
Psi Chis	0	6	.000

High Individual game, Hipke, D. L., 203.

High Game, Delta Iota, 871.

High Game, Delta Iota, 2465.

NOTICE—Hereafter games may be postponed only through the coach's office. Players may not bowl at any other time than that of the match.

New Apparatus

Four new pieces of apparatus, valued at about $80, are being installed in the physics laboratory this week. The addition of the new equipment will make possible the accurate determination of the relation between pressure and boiling point, and will permit much experimentation formerly impossible.

ALL YOU STEPPERS WITH ITCHY FEET ATTENTION! Try-outs for the chorus of Tormenter's 1926 production will be held Thursday night in the Phoenix room. So shine your shoes and get some practice in, so that you will be able to show your stuff to the best advantage. LET'S GO!

Pi Deltas Elect Five New Members

In recognition of their excellent service on the Lawrentian and Ariel, two seniors and three juniors have been elected to membership in the honorary collegiate journalistic fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon. They are Forest Muck, '27, Jefferson, Harlan Hackbert, '27, Appleton, Gordon Clapp, '27, Ellsworth, John Taras, '26, Baraboo, and Lowell Huelster, '26, Oshkosh. Professor Frank W. Clippinger has been elected an honorary member of the fraternity.

Pi Delta Epsilon has forty-three chapters in various colleges in the United States. The Lawrence chapter was organized in 1917, when it absorbed Eta Theta Epsilon, a national honorary journalistic fraternity that had been founded in 1916. The present members in college are John Barnett, George Christensen, Reed Havens, and Dan Hardt.

The customary award of a silver cup to the best all-around freshman reporter will be made in the spring.

Lutherans Organize New Campus Group

A meeting to create a Lutheran students' organization on the campus was held at the Trinity Lutheran Church last Tuesday evening at 6:30. A supper was served by the ladies of the church. Sixty-five of the ninety-six Lutheran students at Lawrence were present and all showed much interest in the plan.

The meeting was conducted by Joe Eggum, '28. Two violin selections by Wenzel Albrecht, accompanied by Hudson Bacon, were well received.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. W. W. Kannerly, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Milwaukee. His talk on "The Cardinal Points of Life," emphasized the following:

- 1—Who you are.
- 2—How you use your money.
- 3—What you read.
- 4—What company you keep.
- 5—Your church.

Dr. Kannerly emphasized the value of attending church, both for the student and the minister; "for," he said, "ministers would rather preach to marble than to wood."

Several of the students expressed their approval of the formation of the new group, and a committee was appointed to arrange plans for the future. The permanent time for meetings has not yet been arranged.

The next meeting of the organization will be held at 4:00 Sunday afternoon, January 24th, at the Trinity Lutheran Church. Every Lutheran student of Lawrence is invited.

A unique specimen of folded quartzite was recently donated to the Geology department by Arnold Purves.

Blues to Face Strong Beloit Team Tonight

Downstaters Out to Avenge Last Year's Close Defeat—Dennymen Expecting Hard Battle

When the Beloit basketball team comes on the Armory floor tonight they will be loaded for bear, for they aim to get revenge for last year's close defeat and to stop the winning streak of the Lawrence five, last year's Midwest and Little Five champions.

Having lost two games, the percentage record of the downstaters is unimpressive. Nevertheless, both of these games were lost to Coe and Cornell, who, according to Coach Denny, are two of the strongest teams in the Midwest Conference this year. Coach "Tommy" Mills has been working with a squad largely composed of last year's substitutes, among whom are Hastings, Garrigan and Vandolah, who is a veteran of two years' court experience.

This game promises to be something of a grudge battle. The Blue and White were only able to split even with the Gold in two games of sensational playing. Coach Denny is not enthusiastic about the probable outcome of the game. He points out that Beloit always has a good team and that it always plays its hardest against the Blues.

"It's going to be a hard game," is the verdict of last year's captain, Jake Zussman. "They always play a hard game against us. The Beloit game last year gave me my biggest thrill, for it was the turning point of the season for us, and was also one of the most exciting games in which I have ever played."

The Blue and White squad have been getting in some hard practices of late. The team went big in the Knox and Monmouth games according to reports. Rod Ashman was the big point scorer and Captain Briese second. Fete struck his stride in the Knox game, and Heideman and Groves played a fine defensive game. These men will probably start, and either Jake Zussman or Buster Clark will be at the other forward position.

Even Meal Time Devoted to Education

"Hable U'd Espanol?" If you do, then you undoubtedly would be able to understand those queer phrases spoken in that language corresponding to our "Please pass the bread," or "Shoot the spuds!"

All this linguistic effort is the result of a Spanish table recently established at Ormsby. About eighteen students under the direction of Miss Charlotte Lorenz are not getting part of their education at meal time. The language is spoken in so far as possible, and this is one of the few instances where business and pleasure go hand in hand.

The whole group is divided into three parts, one division sitting at the "Spanish Table" every third day. Rumor is current that there is to be a French Table at Sage, but as yet it has not been organized.

Voice Recital

Voice students from the studio of Winifred Wilson Quinlan presented a recital in Peabody Hall, Tuesday evening, January 18. Those taking part in the recital were: Nina Youngberg, Marjorie Parkinson, Gertrude Schlerf, Myrtle Farrell, Hazel Taylor, Nora Siewart, and Barbara Ruch.

Why does a chapel audience mentally register "away with it" when a speaker announces his subject as being of a religious character? Such an audience at such a time can be divided into four groups: first, those who drag out their books with total intolerance of the specimen before them; second, those who talk to each other and among whom the speaker may stand a slight chance of even being discussed; third, those who sit in respectful silence dreaming of the chapel windows, of home, or of their studies—for the lenient observer this group may even justify the speaker's existence, for such reprieves are few; and fourth, those who listen to what is said.

We seldom face this situation and less often talk about it, unless it is to express ourselves on how lucky we feel the Chinese must be in their enviable civilization.

When a particular situation doesn't suit our mental palate we say it is "off color." In no field is the freedom of speech so utterly abused as in the field of religion, and groping minds are subject to more uncensored flibustering on this subject than they could possibly be subject to in any other field if they had the enthusiasm of Napoleon.

Much of this uncensored material is "off color." Most of us like discoveries and experiences. "Tinkering" with the mechanism which controls the human will is very fascinating, but I think chapel audiences would be happy to find a few quiet mechanics who could at least hear the motor when it runs.

Oil is necessary, but in our high powered machine let's keep it refined lest we clog the wheels.

Book Reviews

The Virgin Flame by Ernest Pascal: Brentano's $2.

In The Virgin Flame Ernest Pascal has produced one of the most significant novels of the past year. He presents a problem, which it is high time for civilized people to consider; and he affords a very definite answer to those who complain, that, for all her commercial prosperity, America is deplorably backward in the fine arts.

It has been pointed out by no less a person than Leopold Auer, that America cannot hope to produce musicians rivaling their European kindred unless she provides more encouragement and more adequate training for them. In fact we lack an artistry which is offered governmental subsidy, as is the case in most European countries. As a result the aspiring American composer or virtuoso is thrown upon the tender mercies of the barbarians, whose idea of music is probably epitomized in the "Milenberg Joys." Unless he has private means, he must earn his living. How can he do it? By becoming a clerk in a gent's furnishing store or by learning the saxophone. To be sure a European concert artist, substantially praised by the London critics, can command enormous prices from the civilized minority. To be sure an Igor Stravinsky can find refuge in some subsidized stronghold of culture such as the Philadelphia Symphony, while the Philistines beleaguer the gates to the tune of "The House of David Blues." But the virgin flame of our native talent enjoys no such privilege. Often it is extinguished or reduced to the dull level of mediocrity.

The story is of Michael Cardovan, a young musician. He is left without any means, but with genius and ambition. He soon discovers that there is no place for the former, and that the latter is misdirected. But rather than give up his art, he struggles along on a mere pittance derived from teaching music to the slum children. He becomes engaged to Angie Kennewell, but she soon deserts this impetuous idealist for Julius Gersheim who wears "swell clothes" and "shows her a good time." Michael is reduced to playing the piano in a cafe. His work of composing completed, he finds that it is very difficult to get real music produced. Thus the novel runs the gamut of disappointments to the young composer. All of them are doubtless true; certainly there is little exaggeration. In a rather malicious spirit of caricature, the author introduced a jazz trial later in the book. Twelve good men and true are befuddled by a lawyer, who introduces the "Mammy" and "Poor Butterfly" motifs in his speech for the defendants. Needless to say, the defendant, Michael himself, is acquitted. His crowning blow is the pirating of his most ambitious composition, which is duly reduced to the level of popular comprehension and produced under the name of "Persian Kisses."

Considered purely as a literary achievement, "The Virgin Flame" offers manifest defects. Mr. Pascal descends to the level of a pamphleteer for long pages, and his characters are marionettes motivated by the idea behind the book. At times he relieves this by passages of striking cleverness, such as introducing the spirit of jazz and mushy literature in the trial. These show great promise for his more mature work. As for the present volume, its principal merit is the force and sincerity with which it is presented. There is no denying these virtues, and there is no denying the direct bulls-eye which they score.

YOUR NOSE DOESN'T KNOW—SOMETIMES

The chill and frosty air had made her appetite so keen
That a dull and empty void was where her stomach once had been;
And the classes of the morning proved a most heart-breaking bore,
So she sighed as she pushed Sage's elevator door.

From first to second floor she smelled spare-ribs and sauerkraut,
From there to third she vowed, she swore she smelled fried Oshkosh trout,
And when the elevator stuck and she again returned to first,
She got a different wave-length — baked beans, she would be cursed!

The girl who rode with her to third kept sniffing of the air,
And finally said with look of pain she didn't think it fair,
She couldn't stand spaghetti and chop suey all in one,
And if Italy and China knew, a big fight would be on.

The elevator stopped at third, the analyst stepped out,
And as she stepped the threshold o'er, up went her little—(nose)
"I guess I won't eat lunch today,"

Our heroine "speeds" up to fourth—a lightness fills her head,
For in the interim of space she smelled sweet gingerbread,
She reconciled her famished soul,—the plot begins to thicken,
For as she steps onto the floor, she knows for sure it's chicken.

She told her roommate of the news while combing out her hair
That she knows the menu to a "T"; she got it on the air.
And when the luncheon bell rang, her knowledge was emphatic—
But when the waiter served the meal, her appetite went static.

She never trusts her sense of smell; it only means distraction,
And from what we others tell her, she gets no satisfaction;
But with elevator odors she certainly is rash

LAWRENTIAN SPORTS

Campus Sports

Boxing and Wrestling

Weighing in for the boxing tryouts which are to be held Saturday afternoon at the Alexander Gymnasium must be completed by one thirty. The contests will begin at one thirty.

Mark Catlin, Lawrence football mentor and attorney for local boxing and wrestling sports has been engaged to judge the meet. Also Ed Phillips, who is coach of the sport at the local Y.M.C.A.

Apparatus Class

Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock a new form of gymnasium activity will begin—a course in apparatus drill. It will include all forms of apparatus work such as parallel, bars and horse and buck. The class will meet on Wednesday and Friday afternoons at four thirty. All those interested see Coach Gebhard, at the gym office.

Brokaw Hall League

No change in the leaders of the Brokaw Hall League since last week. However, the first round of the tournament has been concluded, with the following results. South section leads the field with the perfect percentage of 1000. Next is North with six sixty six. Third is Center with three thirty while the town boys bring up the rear, defeated in each of the games and with a percentage of 0.

Frosh Basketball

The little green squad romped on Jake Zussman's Vocational school lunch night before last to the tune of 13-7. The frosh were rather ragged on their passing and the vocational boys couldn't seem to find the basket, but both teams had a good work out.

Tonight the frosh will meet the Riverside Paper Mill crew. It's going to make a fast preliminary, since the paper maker outfit are mostly former Appleton High School stars and they know basketball. They have been playing together for some time and have a well filled string of victories stretched out to their credit.

"L" Men Notice

Athletic Director A. C. Denny requests all football "L" wearers to be in sweaters at the Armory at 7 o'clock Friday night to usher for the Beloit-Lawrence game.

NOTICE

Reserved seat tickets for each of the coming home basketball games may be purchased at the college gymnasium or Basing's Sport Shop, for 25 cents each.

The front row of chairs in the entire balcony of the Armory will be reserved for each game. Sufficient chairs will cover these reservations for each of the five home games which remain on the schedule.

Frosh Team to Play Paper Mill Quintet

At seven o'clock tonight the frosh basketballers, already having won their spurs in successful encounters with several strong teams during the last two weeks, engage the Riverside Paper Mill quintet in a preliminary to the varsity game. The latter aggregation is composed of former Appleton High stars who have played together for years, and they should be able to exhibit a good brand of basket ball.

The frosh have shown a world of stuff in their workouts against their opponents so far, and that characteristic pep and fight should carry them to victory over their opponents tonight. The daily practice workouts under Coach Sylvester's directions show that the yearlings have just begun to hit their stride and that they will continue to improve as the season continues.

The starting lineup for tonight will probably be as follows: Brian and Ungrodt at forward positions; Dreher at center; and Barfell and Portz at guard positions. Manning, Fischl, Zimmerman, Frick, Packard, Schauer, and Brossard will undoubtedly get a chance to show their wares.

To Organize Athletic League This Afternoon

In spite of the opportunities for playing interfraternity basketball games and Brokaw Hall and Town boys tournaments, there are still a great number of men who take part in none of these games.

It is for these men that Coaches Denny and Gebhard are organizing a new league for those not already in participating in others.

This afternoon at four thirty there will be a meeting of all men interested and the league organized and the details announced and arranged.

How They Stand

Three teams are tied for the Midwest lead at this writing. Cornell has showed more than a usual amount of strength this season against her opponents to date. Carleton is also stepping to the fore with two victories and no defeats chalked on the board. And Lawrence showed her teeth on the trip to Illinois. The coming week end will undoubtedly find the positions of the teams changed a bit, as the leads of all are not very strong.

They stand as follows—

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cornell	2	0	1.000
Carleton	2	0	1.000
LAWRENCE	2	0	1.000
Coe	2	2	.500
Hamline	1	2	.333
Ripon	0	1	.000
Knox	0	1	.000
Monmouth	0	1	.000
Beloit	0	2	.000

Try-outs for Editor of Sport Section

The absence of Royall La Rose, '27, from the school this quarter, has caused the editorship of the sports section of the Lawrentian to shift every few issues from one member of the sports staff to another. Various members are being tried out for the position. George Dreher, '29, had charge for the first two issues of this quarter. He was succeeded by Bruce McInnis, '28, who is editing this week's issues. By mistake, Tuesday's copy was attributed in the masthead to Dreher instead of McInnis. McInnis has originated two new sections under sport write-ups—the campus sports column and the question-box for co-eds.

CLUBS

TO KILL OR NOT TO KILL

Taking the life of the mentally deficient is morally justifiable, since life without mentality has no personality, and as such is not sacred and can not realize the greatest values.

This was the conclusion of the debate between members of the Philosophy Club, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hall on Thursday, January 19. The affirmative was upheld by Gwendolyn Randall, '26, and Wilbert Nix, '26, while the negative was supported by Gertrude Lanzer, '27, and Marshall Hulbert, '26.

The problem of cheating on the campus was also discussed, and there was much interest in the question of whether the present system of punishment is too severe. The club was divided in opinion in regard to the justification of complete expulsion from school of upper-classmen who are found cheating.

FRENCH CLUB ELECTS

Helen Diderich, '27, was elected president of the French club at a meeting Monday January 18th. Other officers elected were Lois Manchester, '27, vice-president, Gertrude Zuehlke, '27, secretary, and Carl Engler, '28, treasurer.

Following the business meeting, the club discussed affiliation with Beta Pi Theta, a national honorary fraternity. The purpose of the fraternity is the promotion of advanced study in French. No definite decision in regard to affiliation was reached.

NICKEL PLATING

Ralph Kingsbury, '27, discussed "Nickel Plating" at the regular meeting of the Chemistry Club on Tuesday, January 19.

LATIN CLUB

The regular business meeting of the Latin club was held Thursday, January 21, in the Latin library.

15 Minutes Often Make a Difference

As a result of the new ten o'clock library hours, junior girls' regular hours and freshman late nights have been lengthened until that time also. Since no one can draw out a book before nine forty-five, the girls had to obtain special permission to get a book when they had nine forty-five hours. Therefore, the juniors' hours were advanced to ten o'clock so that they might take advantage of the new plans with the seniors, who were the only upper classmen with later hours.

But with this new permission an inconvenient system of four periods for night hours was created: freshmen late nights ended at nine forty-five, junior hours at ten, sophomore late nights at ten-thirty, and senior hours at eleven. For that reason the freshman late night hours were set at ten o'clock, too, thus making a more efficient plan and giving the youngest class a gratifying sense of importance.

Plays in Chapel

Cyrus Daniel, Professor of theory at the Conservatory, gave the following organ solos in chapel Thursday: Harmonie du Soir Kark-Elert Scherzo Avery Andante Cantabile Tschakowsky Caprice Heroique Bonnet Mr. Daniel played "A Song without Words" by Kark-Elert, as encore.

Lawrentians at 12:15 Friday

In the future Friday's issue of the Lawrentian will not be distributed until 12:15. The change in the hour is made necessary by holding open for Thursday night's bowling scores and the report of the Y.M.C.A. meeting.

Through the diligence of Marshall Hulbert and the courtesy of Professor Ingler, four interesting volumes pertaining to the early history of this country were transferred from the miscellaneous collection of unused books at Brokaw Hall to the museum of the American History department.

Observation Course Discontinued

Because of the unsettled condition at Appleton High School due to the general reorganization taking place, it was thought wise to discontinue the course in observation given them by Dr. J. L. Mursell, professor of education. However, some students are being accommodated for this work at the Roosevelt Junior High School. Dr. Mursell expects that the course will be continued at the high school before long.

Dr. L. A. Youtz, professor of Chemistry, was confined to his home Tuesday and Wednesday with a severe cold. Dr. Florence Stouder, laboratory instructor, taught the chemistry classes during the absence of Dr. Youtz.
